The Story of MEADOW ROSE

LIKE all WATSON STERLING patterns, Meadow Rose is an authentic modern interpretation of a motif so basically sound and beautiful that it lives through the years. The rose has for all ages been the favourite flower, and has a place in literature, art and history that no other flower can rival. It has always been a universal symbol of strength, character and beauty;—the insignia of monarchs, blazoned in heraldry as the badge or device of great Lords. The Silversmiths of Watson Park have faithfully combined this spirit of the rose in a design reminiscent of the French-born English Queen, Margaret of Anjou, whose romantic and adventurous life spanned the period of the Wars of the Roses circa 1455-1487. It is from that series of bitter civil conflicts, each of which was characterized by "The Rose is in the field again" that were waged between the followers of the "White Rose of York" and the "Red Rose of Lancaster," during the reigns of Henry VI, Edward IV and Richard III, that the name and motif of Meadow Rose is derived. The 1937 Meadow Rose is the attractive modern design, wrought in fine heavy Sterling Silver around which beautiful tables are set. . . A WATSON STERLING pattern that has been chosen to grace the dining rooms of many of America's first families.
